SPECIAL AIR SERVICE II ASSAULTER HEADSET

COMMUNICATIONS > SITUATIONAL AWARENESS > DURABILITY > FLEXIBILITY: SAS II

In 1998, TCI designed and introduced the Special Air Service Headset System (SAS) to a world-renowned Special Air Service unit and in 2009 we developed the SAS II.

The SAS headset series is certainly one of TCI's most popular products, so we updated the original SAS to create the SAS II. A primary update is an integration of a new black Soundwaves R4 Ear Coil for enhance the earpiece audio and longevity of the Ear Coil portion of the system for teams that deploy under demanding conditions on a regular basis.

The SAS II is a full-featured, progressive tactical headset system that was designed to meet the needs of special operation teams, as well as well as your team. It is currently being used by hundreds of law enforcement and military units around the world.

For customers looking for high performance, versatility and a low-profile system, SAS II is a solid choice. SAS II is one of the most versatile tactical headset systems made today and is a popular choice for those operators seeking a versatile headset that is suitable for active tactical applications. The SAS II can also be concealed under clothing and double as a reliable covert communication system without adaptation.

Many teams are involved in a wide variety of operations, ranging from high-risk entries to surveillances and SAS II is an exceptional choice for these units. With the SAS II, you get the durability required for high-risk activities and have the capability to use the same SAS II system during lower-profile operations.

The SAS II features our TCI Tactical Push-To-Talk switch, black Soundwaves R4 Ear Coil, comfortable/multi-sized TACT-LITE Earmold Kit, Waterproof/Noise-Canceling Microphone, radio connection for your specific model and system storage bag are all. Developed for the rigors of military and law-enforcement special operations, the SAS II headset has proven itself with thousands operators around the globe. Comfort, extreme durability and exceptional performance make the SAS II a popular choice - even when gas masks are deployed.
